

Art History

Vacancy – Reviews Editor

The Reviews Editor of the AAH's prestigious journal Art History completes her term of office at the end of May 2011. Applications are therefore now sought for this position.

Applications, comprising a CV and a covering letter outlining the candidate's experience and suitability for the post, should be sent to the Chair, c/o Association of Art Historians, 70 Cowcross Street, London, EC1M 6EJ by Friday 1st October 2010.

The role comprises the following responsibilities:

- commissioning review articles and single book reviews
- ensuring that Art History continues to include reviews of books covering as wide a range of areas as possible
- ensuring that the standard of reviews continues to be high through careful choice of reviewers, and high editing standards
- ensuring that reviews are provided in a timely fashion.

The successful candidate shall receive an honorarium of £4,000 per annum, and occupy the post for a period of five years.

For any further, specific enquiries, please contact the journal's Editor, David Peters Corbett, by email at ed-arthistory@aah.org.uk.

